To-day has brought to waiting Americans the best news that it could bring—the Chilian trouble. It has brought the tidings that Chile accedes to the demands of the United States as regards the Mata letter, and that it agrees, in the fairest terms, to submit to arbitration the matter of the attack on the Baltimore's sailors.Yesterday the complications with Chile had reached a point at which relations between that Republic and our own seemed strained to the utmost tension.The Executive Department had taken its furthest step in President HARRISON's message, and Secretary BLAINE's ultimatum.The whole affair had been turned over to Congress, and with that body was to rest; subsequently, the decision between peace and war.

Even these extreme steps did not mean that there must be war. There was still left a chance for the magnanimity and forbearance of a great nation to manifest itself. And it was still the national duty to let those qualities uppermost—to go and on, and utterly exhaust all peaceful resources before resorting to such a use of force as would furnish even a shadow of support to a charge of bullying conduct.Today's news of Chile's decision to accede to the requests of the United States makes the best news that it could bring.
There was still left a chance for the magnanimity and forbearance of a great nation to manifest itself. And it was still the na-
haust all peaceful resources before resort-
of bullying conduct.The nation has waited long on Chile, it is true. But it could wait much longer, so that any prospect for a final peaceful adjustment were to be found, with no loss either of its self-respect or the respect of other powers.

Cheerfulness is the Key.

I am cheerful generally, looking on the bright side of things when my hundred-thousand home. Cheerfulness is a duty, and is of the greatest value in life.When he is out of humor I soothe and encourage him by gentle words. I find that a cheerful heart doth good like a medicine.It is to cheer him by keeping his mind and his home clean, well-ordered, and modestly decorated, so that he may have no temptation to my husband than any other person.As he is a man of moderate means, I consider it my duty to help him every way possible, and to make him comfortable.And the mother? It is a shocking case indeed to the community, but a rare one to the student of strange criminal impulses.JEAN COU, bad man, is dead in San Antonio. His death speedily followed yesterday what may be regarded as an epoch in his life. On all previous occasions he had got the drop on the other man.
This time it was fellow-herdsman.The dead man leaves behind him a tolerable record of bloodshed and the name of having been "coolly desperate when sober, terrible when drunk." His demise has cast no perceptible gloom over the community.In Williamsburg Sunday night a rejected lover, out for revenge on the girl who jilted him, knocked down with a slingshot a young woman who was to be the wrong one. "It was a mistake!" was all he could say when caught.
The evident duty of the Court a little later will be to thoroughly convince the fellow that his mistake began when he entered the slingshot idea at all.Drew gave the police captain a little Chilian war talk at their annual dinner last night, right on top of a brand-new lot of election jokes. Let our CHANCERY be the last man to desire the country's passage from an era of peacefulness and jest to one of bloody war.Secretary THAY thinks we could whip Chili in thirty days. But if it were implied that the war in which we did this could have been avoided without loss of self-respect, should we not have a national lifetime of repentence for the bloodshed so hasty and accomplished?A brave girl cashier in a Boston office saved her employer's money from two bold robbers yesterday. It was the unexampled case of a single queen beating a pair of knaves.The framers of the new Excise Law can afford to make no mistake founded on unjust discrimination or disregard of the just rights and customs of any portion of the public.A word to the prudent dive-keeper:
The EVENING WORLD search-light is still in operating order.

*See Chile.*If you marry a sensible man for love, that alone will insure happiness and content.
Never mind if he does not do just as you think he ought, but overlook his faults and give him a chance.Readers of THE EVENING WORLD are given much light on the manner in which American husbands are managed by their wives. The content is governed by the following:CONDITIONS.The interior is the ready indispensable article
